

Real Estate

Investors, developers, and property owners rely on Downey Brand's capabilities to guide them through every phase of a real estate project. Our attorneys have the depth of experience and industry knowledge to assist clients in analyzing real estate opportunities that will advance their interests.

From environmental and title due diligence, to land purchase and financing, and through the approval process with local and state agencies, our attorneys are there to keep the project on track and close the deal. Our industry team brings together real estate, finance, environmental, and land use attorneys, providing clients a comprehensive and efficient response to the challenges and opportunities of any real estate project.

Our diverse client base is representative of our firm and includes manufacturers, agricultural growers and processors, investors, tenants, and owners whose properties include office buildings, retail centers, mixed-used developments, and industrial office parks throughout the region. With years of experience and an understanding of the many variables of a real estate project, our team knows how to close the deal to meet our client's goals.
