Jennie Woo is a thoughtful and strategic transactional attorney who helps clients navigate a wide range of business matters. She brings a results-driven mindset and a creative, common-sense approach to every engagement, with a focus on building lasting client relationships and delivering practical solutions.

Jennie advises clients across multiple areas of Downey Brand's transactional practice, including real estate, corporate formation and governance, estate planning, trust administration, and mergers and acquisitions. Drawing on her strong problem-solving skills and continual drive to learn, Jennie crafts tailored strategies that align with each client's unique objectives. She is committed to professional growth and stays current with the legal and business trends that shape her clients' industries.

As a recent transplant to the Sacramento area, Jennie is committed to putting down roots, both professionally and personally, and values connecting with clients and contributing to the community she now calls home.
